Improving research protections means improving research quality.

Demonstrate your organization's commitment to human research protections through accreditation.

AAHRPP accreditation...

- improves your human research protection program
- assists your organization in achieving regulatory compliance
- helps your organization compete for sponsored research
- “raises the bar” in overall research quality
- builds and enhances public trust

Washington DC Principles for FREE ACCESS to SCIENCE

www.dcpinciples.org

The 7 Principles

- 1 As not-for-profit publishers, we see it as our mission to maintain and enhance the independence, rigor, trust, and visibility that have established scholarly journals as reliable filters of information emanating from clinical and laboratory research.
- 2 As not-for-profit publishers, we reinvest all of the revenue from our journals in the direct support of science worldwide, including scholarships, scientific meetings, grants, educational outreach, advocacy for research funding, the free dissemination of information for the public, and improvements in scientific publishing.
- 3 As not-for-profit publishers, we have introduced and will continue to support the following forms of free access:
 - Selected important articles of interest are free online from the time of publication;
 - The full text of our journals is freely available to everyone worldwide either immediately or within months of publication, depending on each publisher's business and publishing requirements;
 - The content of our journals is available free to scientists working in many low-income nations;
 - Articles are made available free online through reference linking between these journals;
 - Our content is available for indexing by major search engines so that readers worldwide can easily locate information.
- 4 We will continue to work to develop long-term preservation solutions for online journals to ensure the ongoing availability of the scientific literature.
- 5 We will continue to work with authors, peer-reviewers, and editors for the development of robust online and electronic tools to improve efficiency of their important intellectual endeavors.
- 6 We strongly support the principle that publication fees should not be borne solely by researchers and their funding institutions, because the ability to publish in scientific journals should be available equally to all scientists worldwide, no matter what their economic circumstances.
- 7 As not-for-profit publishers, we believe that a free society allows for the co-existence of many publishing models, and we will continue to work closely with our publishing colleagues to set high standards for the scholarly publishing enterprise.

...About the Washington DC Principles

The Washington DC Principles is a commitment from 50 (and growing) medical/scientific societies and publishers to provide free access and wide dissemination of published research findings.

The DC Principles provide what has been called the needed "middle ground" in the increasingly heated debate between those who advocate immediate unfettered online access to medical and scientific research findings and advocates of the current journal publishing system. The document was drafted in response to recent claims that these publishers' practices hinder the public's ability to access published scientific research.
